Symptoms.

Neuralgia means simply "nerve pain," so there may be a great variation in the character and intensity of the pain and any nerve in the body may be affected. There are a number of causes of neuralgia, but the most common is a general run-down condition of the system. The discovery of this fact from reliable statistics led to the new treatment for neuralgia which consists in building up the general health by the tonic treatment and so disposing of the cause of the trouble.

Persons reduced by acute sickness, or by severe mental or physical strain, or by loss of sleep are frequently victims of neuralgia and it is common in the case of those suffering from anaemia or bloodlessness. This brings us to the actual cause of neuralgia, which is nerve starvation. The blood which in normal health carries to the nerves all of their nourishment, is unable to perform this duty satisfactorily when it is weak or impure. Build up the blood and the neuralgic pain will disappear as the nerves become better nourished. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a blood-making tonic, and for this reason cure even the most obstinate cases of neuralgia. Every dose of this medicine makes new, rich blood, which feeds the starved veins and drives out the sharp, darting, stabbing pains of neuralgia. Mrs. John Tibert, Little River, N. S., says: "A few years ago I was a great sufferer from neuralgia in my head and face. At times the attacks were simply excruciating, and I would be forced to remain in bed. I tried doctors' medicines, but did not receive any benefit until I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I am happy to say that the benefit I received from these was wonderful. I may also add that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured my daughter of anaemia and indigestion, at a time when we began to despair of her getting better. I can highly recommend these Pills to anyone suffering from these troubles."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicines or they will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DRAGGED IN THE SEA.

A Woman Aeronaut's Thrilling Adventures.

Mile Marvingt, a French lady living at Nancy (France), who is well known as a swimmer, fencer, and ballroomer, reached London after an extraordinarily adventurous balloon journey, during part of which the car was dragged along the surface of the sea.

She had as companion, M. Garnier, a neighbor of hers at Nancy. The pair intended to take a trip into Holland, but, with the wind in their favor, they decided to continue the journey across the Eng-

The trial attracted many persons to the court house. And the court room was densely crowded.

But many who had never seen Marie Serafinne, and who expected to behold in the accused a monster as revolting in appearance as the alleged crime was in essence, were astonished when they saw the slender, fragile form, and the fair, wan face and simple, childlike aspect of the young prisoner.

When she was formally arraigned and asked whether she were guilty, or not guilty, she answered very artlessly—

"I wouldn't have hurt my poor little baby to have saved my own life, if I had known it. But I didn't know when I did it. I didn't even know I had done it. But I know I must have done it, because there was nobody else in the house. And, sir, I am willing to die for it."

She was here instructed that her informal answer would not do; but that if she could not recollect having committed the crime, she must plead "not guilty."

Then, in her obedient spirit, she pleaded as she had been told to do. When asked if she had any counsel, she answered, "No sir."

But just then the stately form and noble face of Mr. Ishmael Worth, of the Richmond bar, one of the most eminent lawyers and humane gentlemen of the age, was seen to rise from the crowd of spectators.

He had only that day arrived in Pine Cliff, on his way to Washington City. And his presence in the court room was purely accidental—or providential.

He now advanced, and bowing to the Bench, said:

"Your Honor, I am counsel for the prisoner, if she will accept me."

His words produced the profoundest sensation. Here was a lawyer of world-wide renown, whose advocacy almost always secured a verdict for his client, whether in a criminal or a civil suit, and whose retaining fee was often as high as ten thousand dollars—offering now to give his inestimable time, talents, and legal knowledge to the defence of a poor, friendless, and penniless outcast.

"She will thankfully accept your aid, no doubt, Mr. Worth," said the Judge.

Ishmael Worth bowed, and passed to the side of the young prisoner, who after her arraignment, had been permitted to sit down in a chair, under the immediate surveillance of a constable.

"You are willing to let me try to save you, my child?" he said kindly.

"I thank you very much, sir, but I have no money, not a cent," she answered in her apathetic way.

"Money? poor child—I do not want any from you," he answered gently.

"And besides, sir, I am willing to die," she added meekly.

"But we are not willing to let you

The prosecution was opened by a short address of the State's attorney to the jury, followed by the calling of the first witness, Mrs. Butterfield, the farmer's wife, who discovered the dead child.

She testified to the facts within her knowledge, and which are already known to the reader.

She was followed by Dr. Barton, who being called to the stand testified that he had made a post-mortem examination of the child's body and found from appearances that it had been born alive and subsequently strangled.

These were the only two important witnesses for the prosecution, which closed with a short summation by the State's attorney.

The cross-examination of witnesses was rigidly reserved for the defence.

Mr. Worth arose on the part of the prisoner. He, too, made but a short preliminary speech before calling witnesses.

First, he called in succession some of the most respectable citizens of the country, who had known the little cottage girl, Marie Serafinne, from her childhood to the present time, and could testify to the uniform gentleness and sweetness of her temper and disposition.

Finally, he called his most valuable witness—Dr. Marius Simson, of Baltimore, the greatest authority on the medical questions bearing upon this case. He had prepared himself for the present occasion by reading up the minutes of the post-mortem examination with great care.

And now, being sworn and examined he proved by a very thorough process of testimony, that the child came to her death by accidental physiological causes alone.

The doctor submitted to a very strict cross-examination by the prosecution; but that only brought out his evidence in a clearer, stronger light.

He sat down.

Doctor Barton, who had been a witness for the prosecution, was now recalled by the defence.

He was subjected to a searching cross-examination, during which he became confused, exposed his own comparative ignorance, entangled his own former testimony, and upon the whole corroborated that of Dr. Simson.

He was then permitted to retire. And Mr. Worth arose to address the jury, with one of those strong, pithy, closely-reasoned and eloquent appeals that nearly always gained his cause.

And with the end of his speech the defence closed.

The Judge summed up in a very few, impartial words, and gave the case to the jury.

Without even leaving their seats, the jury returned a prompt verdict of

"Not Guilty."

And the young prisoner was discharged from custody, and found down for the sake of the quarry beneath it.

CHAPTER VIII.

She saw and understood all at a glance; for there had been quarrying in that neighborhood before; and the chance of losing their little home through the quarrying had been one of the bugbears of her grandmother's last days.

She uttered no complaint, if indeed there had been anything to complain of.

She only asked one of the workmen what had been done with her grandmother's little household furniture.

The man raised his head and recognized her, with a look of horror and disgust that chilled her heart.

He would not even speak, but pointed to a log cabin about a quarter of a mile distant, down on the other side of the road.

Marie turned away, heart-sick of the world.

The sun was sinking behind the mountain, and the shadows were darkening over the valley!

How well she remembered one similar scene, some ten months before, when she took one fatal walk with her lover, and the sun went down on her happiness forever.

Night was coming on, and she had not where to lay her head!

She walked slowly towards the hut which the workman had pointed out, as containing the relics of her grandmother's poor furniture.

The log hut was occupied by a negro woman, called Aunt Sukey, and her husband and children, all slaves of the rich landholder who owned the quarry.

On seeing Marie Serafinne approach, they came out to meet her, not with words of welcome, but with looks of silent aversion.

Poor Marie explained meekly enough that she had come only to ask about her grandmother's poor household goods, that were not worth much, she added; but if the woman would give her shelter that night and the next day, or until she could think of where to go, she (the woman) might have the little bit of furniture.

"It's only a bed and an armchair, and some little tea-things, and such! All the rest was stole, I reckon. Marse tole me to keep these, case you ever come to want 'em. So dey let you off, did dey? Marse said dey would, soon's he hear Marse Worth took you up," remarked Aunt Sukey, staring at her visitor.

"They said I was not guilty. And I was not, Aunt," meekly replied the girl, as, no longer able to stand, she sank down and sat upon a stone.

"I dunno. Hard tellin' whedder you is or not. Well, you kin stay here to-night. Which I hopes to goodness you won't do nuffin bad to my poor chillun," said Aunt Sukey doubtfully.

"Oh, Heaven! Do you think I am a devil?" cried poor Marie, bursting into tears.

"Dunno. Hard tellin' what you is. But you kin stay here to-night, anyways, 'cause I don't spect no white person ain't agoin' to take you in. So git up offen de damp groun', and come in de house."

balloon journey, during part of which the car was dragged along the surface of the sea.

She had as companion, M. Garnier, a neighbor of hers at Nancy. The pair intended to take a trip into Holland, but, with the wind in their favor, they decided to continue the journey across the English Channel to England, and arrived after a stormy journey at Southwold.

The balloon, after nearly coming in contact with the lighthouse, struck some telephone wires. Mlle. Marvingt jumped out and sprained her ankle.

Released of her weight, the balloon immediately rose again, taking M. Garnier about two miles inland, where it caught in a tree. There he also managed to jump out. "We passed Metz and Luxembourg without any trouble," said the lady in telling of her trip, "but soon began to ascend very high. At one time we reached a height of 8,000 feet. We travelled very fast, and found ourselves over Holland. As the wind was still blowing hard, I said to my companion, as if an inspiration had suddenly come to me, 'Let's go to England.' He was delighted with the idea, and so we kept on.

"We came to the sea, and then it began to snow and hail, and we got quite roughed. For about an hour the balloon dragged in the sea, and we began to be fearful for our safety, but I could still keep our bearings.

"By throwing out ballast and everything we could spare, we got the balloon to rise again, and, the wind still keeping southeasterly, we came to land."

A RELIABLE MEDICINE FOR ALL CHILDREN

Baby's Own Tablets are absolute safety. This medicine is as good for the new-born babe as the well-grown child. It contains no opiate or poisonous stuff. The mother who gives this medicine to her child has the guarantee of a government analyst that these statements are true. This is worth something to every mother. Baby's Own Tablets is the only medicine that is sold under such a guarantee. The Tablets cure such ailments as indigestion, colic, constipation, diarrhoea, and teething troubles, destroy worms, break up colds, and thus prevent deadly croup. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

She (to beggar)—"It's a wonder you don't use soap and water once or so in a month." Me—"I have thought of it, mum, but there's so many kinds of soap, and it's so hard to tell which is and which is not injurious to the skin that I don't like to take any risks."

A Liniment for the Logger.—Loggers lead a life which exposes them to many perils. Wounds, cuts and bruises cannot be altogether avoided in preparing timber for the drive and in river work, where wet and cold combined are of daily experience coughs and colds and muscular pains cannot but ensue. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil when applied to the injured or administered to the ailing, works wonders.

"I thank you very much, sir, but I have no money, not a cent," she answered in her apathetic way.

"Money? poor child—I do not want any from you," he answered gently.

"And besides, sir, I am willing to die," she added meekly.

"But we are not willing to let you die, especially, with an undesired stigma upon your name, as I am sure this is."

And then, again addressing the Bench, he said:

"Your Honor, I crave of the Court opportunity to confer with my client, and to examine the evidence against her."

Then followed a short consultation between the Judge and the State's Attorney. And then, as it was near the hour of noon, the Court was adjourned until 2 p.m.

When the Judge had left the bench, the prisoner was taken to the marshal's room, where she was left alone with her counsel.

Ishmael Worth, true, tender, sympathetic, drew from the forsaken girl the sad story of her love and trust, and bitter wrongs and sufferings. And he knew that every word she spoke was truth, except, indeed, her despairing self-accusations of the death of her babe.

"I do not believe you are guilty," he said, as soon as he had heard her to the end.

"I must be," she said piteously; "for my child was living. I heard her cry! That is all I know till I saw her dead! But I never meant to hurt her. I would have died first. She knows it now; for she must be an angel in Heaven."

"Hush, Marie! You are very ignorant—almost as ignorant as the Dogherries of the Coroner's jury, who found the verdict against you. I shall summon as a witness for the defence, the celebrated Dr. Marius Simson, who is our greatest authority in that special department of the practice of medicine that affects your case. I think his testimony will be valuable," replied Mr. Worth, as he set himself to examine a copy of the minutes of the Coroner's inquest, with which the marshal had just furnished him.

When the Court met in the afternoon, Mr. Worth asked for a postponement of the trial, until an important witness for the defence could be brought from Baltimore.

The petition was granted, and the trial postponed until that day week, the 14th of March.

Marie Serfenne was reminded of her prison and the Court took up other cases of less vital importance. Ishmael Worth deferred his visit to Washington, and gave his full attention to getting up the defence of this poor girl, as if he had been retained with a ten thousand dollar fee, or if he had been a young barrister with his reputation depending upon the success of his first case. In the interim, he had many interviews with his client.

The day of trial came, and the court, as before, was crowded.

The Judge summed up in a very few, impartial words, and gave the case to the jury.

Without even leaving their seats, the jury returned a prompt verdict of "Not Guilty." And the young prisoner was discharged from custody, and found herself at liberty before she well understood what had happened to her.

The usual great gabbling among the spectators, followed the rendering of the verdict and the adjournment of the Court.

"So, she wasn't guilty after all," said one.

"But she would have been convicted and hanged all the same up on the testimony of old Dr. Barrow, if Mr. Worth had not taken up the case, and brought that great Dr. Marius Simson, from Baltimore, to show up the rights of things," said another.

"And to think that Mr. Worth not only gave up all his own precious time, good for a million a month almost, in term time, but actually paid all the expenses of bringing the witness here, whose time was nearly as precious as his own. It was princely!"

"Princely? Yes! But Ishmael Worth is a prince among men!"

While these comments were being made by the crowd, Ishmael Worth took the hand of his bewildered client and drew her arm within his own, and led her into the open air in front of the Court house.

"My child, where do you wish to go?"

"First of all on my knees to thank you, sir, for saving my poor life, and for much more than that, for proving not only to the jury, but to my own bleeding heart that I never hurt my poor baby even while I was out of my head."

"Stay! stay, Marie! you must kneel only to the Lord, and not to his human instrument! Where shall I take you? I wish to see you in safety before I leave you. I have to drive to the Wendover station, and take the train to Richmond tonight."

"I wish to go to my own little house under the cliff. But don't you trouble to take me there, sir. I can go very well alone."

"You are sure?"

"Yes, sure."

"Then, my child, take this," he said, handing a twenty-dollar bill in his hand, which she made a gesture of refusing. "Nay, you must take it, from a father. And here is my address. If ever you should meet a friend, write to me."

He added, as he forced the bank note with his hand into her hand.

He was gone, and she hurried down the street, and out of the village, and on a road leading to her hut.

As soon as she found herself alone in the wood, she knelt down and thanked the Lord for her great deliverance, and prayed Him to bless her benefactor, Ishmael Worth.

Then she hurried on towards her hut. But when she reached the spot a great shock awaited her. The hut had disappeared, and young men were at work digging out red sandstone from under its foundation.

The hut, indeed, had never been her own or her grandfather's property. They had lived in it, rent free, by the sufferance of the iron landholder, who owned the ground. His interests had at last required its removal. And during the long imprisonment of his mistress, which was supposed would end only in death, he had had it pulled you in. So get up offen de damp greun', and come in de house." (To be continued.)

AS IN OLDEN TIMES. The Eyes of the Blind Opened Miraculously.

A sudden recovery of sight that after 11 years of darkness came back in a manner little short of miraculous is reported from Sleekburn, Northumberland. The blind man to whom the precious gift of vision has been again vouchsafed is Mr. Robert Holland, who is 82 years of age. When 11 years ago he became blind the doctors told him he would never see again, and he accepted their verdict with what resignation he could.

A few days ago the miracle happened. "I had been out for a walk," he said, "and when I returned to the house I put my hands up to my head. As soon as I took them down I found that I could see. I called out to my wife, 'I can see,' but she would not believe me at first. Since then I have been out every day rejoicing in the sight of the sky and the houses and fields."

Magistrate—"What is your occupation?" Prisoner—"I am an employer of labor, your honor." Magistrate—"Well, what do you do?" Prisoner—"I find employment for such gentlemen as yourself and prison officials." Sentence—Six months' hard.

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator has no equal for destroying worms in children and adults. See that you get the genuine when purchasing.

He (fiercely)—"We don't need that rug any more than a cat needs two tails. How often have I told you, my dear, never to buy anything because it's cheap?" She (with an air of one who has got the better of the argument)—"But it wasn't cheap, my love; it cost $20."

Thos. Sabin of Eglinton, says: "I have removed ten worms from my feet with Holloway's Corn Cure." Reader, go thou and do likewise.

CONTINUED LESSON.

Mamma—"I am delighted at the interest my boy is taking in his writing. He spends two hours a day at it."

Visitors—"Really? How strange! How did you get him to do it?"

Mamma—"Oh, I told him to write me out a list of everything he wants for his birthday, and he's still at it."

BUT GOT NO RELIEF UNTIL HE USE DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Wonderful Cure of A. F. Richard,
Who was Tortured by Rheumatism, and Kindred Pains, Sets Kent County Talking.

St. Ignace, Kent Co., N. B.,
Nov. 22—(Special).—After being tortured for four years with backache, Rheumatism, Stiffness of the Joints and Pains in the Loins, and getting no relief from five doctors whom he called in, Mr. Antoine F.
Richard, a well-known farmer living near here, is spreading the good news that he is once more a well man, and that he owes his cure to Dodd's Kidney Pills. Speaking of his wonderful cure, Mr. Richard says:—

"I was a helpless man in July, 1907. For four years I had endured the greatest torture from Backache, Rheumatism, Stiffness of the Joints and Pains in the Loins. I had dark circles under my eyes, my head ached and I was often dizzy.
I was attended by five doctors, but not one of them could help me.

"Then I began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills and after the first few doses I began to improve. I used four boxes in all and now I am working every day on the farm—a well man. I owe my wonderful cure to Dodd's Kidney Pills and nothing else."

There is no case or kind of Kidney Disease that Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

LIVE STOCK NOTES.

Fed is too expensive to use sparingly. You get no real returns from a mere subsistence ration. It is what you feed above that that really makes money for you.

Select long, broad, roomy sows for breeders. Short, thick sows will not give as large litters nor suckle as many pigs. Young sows that are selected for breeders should be from large litters. These are more likely to give large, even litters, than sows from small, inferior ones.

Ground bone is a splendid winter substitute for the insects eaten during summer. Nothing will pay the professional poultryman or owner of a large flock better than a bone-mill. It is a question, however, whether it will pay the average farmer to invest in one. They turn too hard for women to operate and few men and boys will do the work regularly. This is an important point, as the bones should be used fresh and not allowed to become tainted. Fowls need grass in the summer the same as other live stock, and in the winter the best substitute for this green food is clover meal. Scalded and mixed with grain meal, it makes an ideal poultry food.

WATER GAUGE BURST.

accident. The water gauge of the the Gentlewoman, that his inordinate demands for his favorite beverage were occasionally difficult to comply with. On Sir Joshua Keynolds reminding him that he had already consumed eleven cups he replied: Sir, I did not count your glasses of wine; why should you number my cups of tea?" adding laughingly and in perfect good humor: "Sir, I should have released our hostess from any further trouble, but you have reminded me that I want one more cup to make up the dozen, and I must request Mrs.

Cumberland to round up my score."

When he saw the complacency with which the lady of the house obeyed his behests he said cheerily: "Madam, I must tell you for your comfort, you have escaped much better than a certain lady did a while ago, upon whose patience I intruded greatly more than I have yours. She asked me for no other purpose than to make a zany of me and set me gabbling to a parcel of people I knew nothing of; so, madam, I had my revenge on her,
for I swallowed five and twenty cups of her tea."

Cumberland declared that his wife would gladly have made tea for Johnson "as long as the New River could have supplied her with water," for it was then, and then only, he was seen at his happiest moments.

On his Scottish tour his inexorable demands for tea sorely tried the patience of Lady Macleod of Dunvegan, who after giving him his sixteenth cup suggested that further supplies in a small basin might be agreeable to him.

"I wonder, madam," he answered roughly, "why all the ladies ask me such questions. It is to save yourself trouble, madam, and not me."

The lady was discreetly silent, and resumed her task.

BEGINNING OF THE END.

"Let me see," mused the young man in the parlor scene, "I have been courting you for about three years, haven't I?"

"Yes, I believe so," replied the patient maid.

"Well," he continued, "I think I have made love to you long enough.
Let's get married."

POULTRY.

We call the attention of our read-

Langlois & Co., Montreal, which appears elsewhere in this paper. If you have any poultry to place on the market during the holiday sea-

nicate with them before rushing goods to market. It is a good plan to write to these people if you have eggs, butter, poultry or honey to dispose of at any time, as they are known to be a very reliable house.

WATCH-BOYS IN NORWAY.

They Keep a Lookout for a School of Fish.

It is common enough to see a boy watching cattle to keep them from straying, and in days not so very long gone by it was no unusual thing for a boy to be set to keep the birds off the crops. But a watch-boy whose duty it is to keep a lookout for a school of fish, and who sits in a sentry-box set upon stilts, is not such an every-day sight.

This particular kind of watch-boy is Norwegian, the scene of his labors being the shores of some fiord of his native land.

His little sentry-box is made of wood, and perched high upon posts.

WATER GAUGE BURST.

C. P. R. Fireman Badly Scalded.

C. P. R. fireman, Geo. H. Duffus, who lives in Robertson Street, Fort William, while on his engine near Westford happened with a nasty accident. The water gauge of the locomotive burst and scalded, the left side of his face and head terribly. "It so happened," said Duffus to our representative, "that I had a box of Zam-Buk in my pocket, which I used for a sore on my lip, and when I had recovered from the first shock of the accident, I produced the balm and had it applied freely to the scalded parts. At the time I applied it I was suffering acute agony, but within a wonderful short time Zam-Buk gave me ease. I was able to continue my journey, and upon reaching home I obtained more Zam-Buk and continued the treatment. It acted wonderfully well, and in a few days had the wound nicely healing. I don't know anything so fine as a healer of burns, scalds, cuts, and similar injuries which workers are so liable to; and in my opinion a box of Zam-Buk should be kept handy in every worker's home."

For burns, cuts, scalds, bruises, eczema, piles, ulcers, ring-worms, itch, salt rheum, bad leg, festering sores, chapped places, cold-sores, frost-bites, and all skin injuries and diseases, Zam-Buk is beyond doubt a most marvellous cure.

Druggists and stores sell at 50 cents a box and the Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, will mail a box, post free, upon receipt of price, to any of our readers.

UNCLE EZRA SAYS:

"The man who scatters the seeds of kindness don't need to worry about the cultivation; the crop will take care of itself."

A Boon for the Bilious. — The liver is a very sensitive organ and easily deranged. When this occurs there is undue secretion of bile and the acid liquid flows into the stomach and sours it. It is a most distressing ailment, and many are prone to it. In this condition a man finds the best remedy in Parnelee's Vegetable Pills, which are warranted to speedily correct the disorder. There is no better medicine in the entire list of pill preparations.

FAMOUS TEA DRINKERS.

Johnson Reads the List With a Capacity of 25 Cups at a Sitting.

Namdeon, like Johnson, was a hardened tea drinker, and so, a century later, says Mr. Gladstone, who confessed that "he drank more tea between midnight and in the morning than any other member of the House of Commons, and that the strongest brew of it never interfered with his sleep."

The dish of tea was one of the most important factors in Johnson's life. Proficiency in the gentle art of tea drinking was regarded by him as an essential attribute of the perfect woman, and there can be no doubt that his female friends (and their name was legion) did their best to gratify his amiable weakness.

thing with the egg, Mrs. Skimpem. I was just looking for the wishbone, that's all.

An Always Ready Pill. — To those of regular habit medicine is of little concern, but the great majority of men are not of regular habit. The worry and cares of business prevent it, and out of the irregularity of life comes dyspepsia, indigestion, liver and kidney troubles as a protest. The run-down system demands a corrective and there is none better than Parnelee's Vegetable Pills. They are simple in their composition and can be taken by the most delicately constituted.

WANTFUL.

A woman seldom has any time to be thankful for the things she has because of the many other things she wants.

Mrs. Robert E. Peary, more than nine years ago, favorably commented on Murine Eye Remedy after its application for her Family for Eye Troubles resulting from Measles and Scarlet Fever, and later recommended to the famous Explorer, the Man who now returns home as the Discoverer of the North Pole. Cold, Cutting Winds and Dust cause Red, Weak, Watery Eyes. Murine Eye Remedy affords Reliable Relief. Write Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago, for Illustrated Eye Books. Brown — "Let us cross the street. I see Smith coming, and I don't want to meet him. I owe him a little money." Robinson — "You're all right here. He'll cross the street as soon as he sees us. He owes me money."

Often what appear to be the most trivial occurrences of life prove to be the most momentous. Many are disposed to regard a cold as a slight thing, deserving of little consideration, and this neglect often results in most serious ailments entailing years of suffering. Drive out colds and coughs with Bickie's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the recognized remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

QUARRLSOME.

"But why did you leave your last place?" the lady asked of the would-be cook.

"To tell the truth, mum," said Sarah, "I just couldn't stand the way the master an' the missus used to quarrel, mum."

"Dear me! Do you mean to say that they actually dared to quarrel — and before the servants?"

"Why, yes, mum, all the time. When it wasn't me an' him, mum, it was me an' her."

If a man never has any use for a doctor he hasn't much of a kick coming.

ISSUE NO. 48—09.

His little sentry-box is made of wood, and perched high upon posts. Here the lad sits, gazing out across the arm of the sea, using his keen eyes for the benefit of the farmers who are depending upon him to give the alarm when a school of fish shall appear. They work contentedly enough in their fields, and are in the belief that their watch-box will let them know when it is time to reap a harvest from the sea instead of from the land.

When the signal is given they leave their work, throw their big nets over their shoulders, and hurry off to their boats.

Sentry-boxes similar to those employed in Norway were in use among the fishermen on the shores of the Mediterranean, and it is supposed that the vikings brought back with them from some of their piratical raids the idea that has been put in practise ever since.

The average man is either dissatisfied with what he has or with what he hasn't.

STRIKE OF THE SWITCHMEN

Not a Wheel Turning on any Freight Train Between St. Paul and Seattle

A despatch from St. Paul, Minn., says: The strike of switchmen on the Northern transcontinental lines between St. Paul and the Pacific coast has already involved 63,000 people directly and indirectly, and before the strike is adjusted it is believed that 150,000 persons will have been affected. Not a wheel is turning on any freight train between St. Paul and Seattle. In Minneapolis three of the big flour mills have closed down for the reason that they could not receive grain for ship flour. At St. Cloud, Minn., the Great Northern has closed its shops, putting 500 men in idleness. At Superior, Wis., the Great Northern has closed down its shops and docks, crowding out 350 men. At St. Cloud, in the granite works, 500 men were thrown out of employment because of the uncertainty of the future. From St. Cloud, Wilmar, Fargo, Grand Forks, Jamestown, Devil's Lake, Minot, Billings, Livingston, Butte and Helena 165 engine crews were called off. The switchmen have allowed perishable freight to be attached to passenger trains to be taken to terminal stations, but this only applies to the next 12 hours. This situation is practically the same clear to the coast.

The chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen on Wednesday advised the general managers of all the Western railroads that if any attempt is made to replace the striking switchmen by non-union men he will call a strike. The situation at present is this: That none of the jobbers of Chicago, the Twin Cities or Duluth can ship a single article except by express. Not a farmer in the North-West can deliver to the commission houses of the Twin Cities except by express. That the prospective Christmas business throughout the North-West on all lines is paralyzed. Milling and manufacturing industries are hourly being suspended and the loss in money runs into the hundreds of thousands of dollars every 24 hours. This is the most far-reaching and disastrous strike that has occurred in the West for 25 years, and the determination on both sides to fight to a finish promises to prolong the struggle for weeks.

Telegrams from the northern Minnesota iron range towns on Wednesday night, which includes a population of more than 175,000, say that if the strike continues for a week there will be a food famine in all of the towns. One of the effects of the strike is the suspension of the big packing-houses at South St. Paul. They can neither receive live stock nor ship their present supply of produce.

STRIKE ABOUT OVER.

With 1,500 men imported to take the places of the striking switchmen who are members of the Switchmen's Union of North America and those strikers who are members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen returning to work, managers of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railroads on Friday night asserted that the strike was about over.

The strike leaders, however, despite the desertion of the trainmen and the gradual resumption of traffic, asserted that the strike had only begun. Freight congestion is not appreciably relieved. After a conference on Friday afternoon with President Hawley of the Switchmen's Union and E. W. Decker of the clearing house, Governor Eberhardt announced that a well-defined movement had been started to effect a settlement of the strike.

President L. W. Hill of the Great Northern said there could be no truth in any talk of settlement even with individual railroads, as the General Managers had decided that they would all stand together. Mr. Hill said that the railroads could get enough men in the east to take the strikers' places, but that they did not want to bring them all in now, preferring to give the old men a chance to return as individuals.

A COAL SHORTAGE.

Dealers in the West Neglected to Stock Up.

A despatch from Regina says: With the sudden dip in temperature which has occurred come reports of a dangerous shortage of fuel in some localities. This has been carefully investigated by the Government, with a view to ascertaining who is responsible for the situation. It has been learned that the railways have done everything possible to facilitate shipments, and have urged the dealers to lay in stocks in advance, but the advice has not been acted upon. The mines have been able to supply all the orders promptly, and therefore it is strictly up to the dealers in the various centres. However, the situation is not yet an alarming one, although many towns have only a hand-to-mouth supply.

A HUNTER'S MISTAKE.

John Smith Kills W. McCreary, Taking Him for a Deer.

A despatch from Rathwell, Manitoba, says: The first fatality of the big game shooting season occurred near here on Wednesday afternoon, when John Smith shot and killed W. McCreary in mistake for a deer. The bullet hit McCreary full in the chest and caused instant death. His two brothers were in the bush with him and at once conveyed the body to this town. Smith also came in and gave himself up to the police.

STRIKE SETTLED.

Operatives and Men in Alberta Mines Reach an Agreement.

A despatch from Edmonton, Alta., says: A settlement of the coal strike in all the local mines has been effected. The Standard mine, the largest near Edmonton affected, will pay the men 21½ cents more per car mined and will recognize the union in check off and other matters, which it before refused to do. The Frank mine and Ritchie mine also agreed to the same terms and the men in both cases are again at work. Parkdale mine will be closed up, as it is in a bad condition financially. At Cardiff mine, near Morinville, where fifty men walked out on Monday with the advice of a union official, the trouble was remedied and the men have returned to work at the old terms.

NEW BOATS FOR THE PACIFIC.

The C. P. R. is Preparing to Build Them at Once.

A despatch from Montreal says: Arrangements are now under way by the Canadian Pacific Railway for the construction of two new boats for the Pacific Coast service at a cost of about $1,250,000. Capt. J. W. Troup, manager of the Pacific service, is now in Montreal discussing arrangements as to the building of these new boats with the officials at headquarters. It has been definitely decided that their construction will be immediately undertaken, but details have not yet been worked out. Capt. Troup will sail for England next Friday from St. John by the Empress of Britain, and the final arrangements for the construction of the two new boats will be made there.

WATER IN THE BUTTER.

An Extensive Fraud Perpetrated by Foreigners in Montreal.

A despatch from Montreal says: A gigantic butter fraud is engaging the attention of the city and Provincial authorities. Thousands of pounds of butter, it is found, have already been disposed of, and seven grocers are known to be implicated. The butter was purchased from the wholesalers at 24 cents a pound. It was retailed at 22 cents a pound, which aroused the authorities. Investigation showed that the butter had been worked over with water and made heavier, so that a handsome profit was being made. In one case there was 35 per cent. water. Most of those implicated are foreigners.

DILLON IS INSANE.

Montreal Murderer of Constable Shea Will Go to Asylum.

A despatch from Montreal says: Word was received in the city on Thursday afternoon from Ottawa to the effect that John Dillon is to escape the gallows. The report of the specialists, Dr. Phelan of Kingston and Dr. Burgess of the Vergun Protestant Hospital for the Insane, on the mental condition of Dillon was made known on Thursday. In effect the report is that Dillon is not of sufficiently sound mind to appreciate the sentence, and that, in view of this, the Crown would not be justified in carrying out the sentence of death pronounced upon him in September last.

A DARING ROBBERY.

Two Masked Men Hold up Merchant at Lewisville, N. B.

A despatch from Moncton, N. E., says: A hold-up of the wild-west variety was successfully pulled off at Lewisville, a suburb of Moncton early on Friday night by two masked men, unknown. The desperadoes entered the store of W. R. Williams just after dark, and with cocked revolvers held the proprietor and two clerks at bay while the till was ransacked and twenty dollars taken. The men then backed out and fled in the darkness. The robbery was done so quickly that the young woman bookkeeper at work in the office did not know it happened till she was told.

ARREST IN BIG ROBBERY

Railway Mail Clerk Charged With Stealing Money Package.

A despatch from Winnipeg says: The climax of a $5,000 robbery occurred on Thursday, when John A. Barnett, a railway mail clerk, was arrested charged with the crime. It is the sequel of the disappearance of a package containing $5,885 from the mails on the Carman-Hartney branch of the Canadian Northern Railway on Nov. 1. The police found $1,000 of the stolen money on Wednesday, but admit the problem of solving the mysterious affair is puzzling them. Barnett took his arrest coolly,

The totals for this year from April to October, inclusive, are:—1909, 65,755; 1908, 38,844. Brick walls in the basement were demolished, doors were blown off their hinges, the flooring on the main flat of the building was blown upward, and the walls were damaged. The damage will probably amount to at least $4,000. The boiler which burst had been out of order but had been repaired.

Choosing an Investment

If you have a few hundred saved and want your savings to grow faster than they will by compounding interest at 4 or 4 1-2 per cent., the selection of a medium for investment is a serious matter.

Some of the accepted investments are these--

Municipal Debentures, paying 3% to 5 per cent.
Corporation Bonds, paying from 4% to 6% per cent.
Bank Shares, paying from 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 per cent.
Steam and Electric Railroad Shares, paying from 4% to 5 1/2 per cent.
Manufacturing and Industrial Stocks, paying from 7 per cent. up.

Bonds vs. Industrial Stocks.

Bonds bear only a stated low rate of interest, usually from 4 to 6 per cent., do not increase in value, and at the end of a stated number of years return you only the money invested.

Industrial Stocks always yield 7 per cent. or over, with extra dividends as the business prospers, increasing in value as the business grows, and after a term of years can be sold for more than the original investment.

Some Record Breakers.

Industrial Stocks have always been the biggest money earners. Among the big ones are: Standard Oil, Western Union Telegraph, Bell Telephone, Singer Sewing Machine and Westinghouse Air Brake.

You are too late to reap the benefit of investing in these "record breakers," but you can participate in Toronto's Taxicabs—a new industrial which after six months' operation has proven that it can pay, beginning January, 1910, a dividend of 10 per cent. per annum, or 2 1/2 per cent. quarterly, and is constantly increasing in value.

A Good Buy

Taxicab Stock is a good buy at $6.00 per share, par value $5.00, and we advise its purchase.

A despatch from Digby, N. S., says: One of the most appalling stories of hardship and suffering ever experienced by Nova Scotia fishermen comes from Westport, on the Bay of Fundy. Last Monday morning at three o'clock, Geo. Reppot, aged 55 years, and his son, Ray, aged 20, left Westport in a small 20-foot gasoline boat for the fishing grounds. They were seen hauling their trawls at 10 o'clock the same morning by Capt. Nelson Thurber, of the schooner Swan, and nothing was seen of them until about one o'clock on Thursday afternoon, when they were picked up off Trinity Ledge, 20 miles from land, by Capt. A. J. Thurber, of the schooner Venus, and brought into Westport in an exhausted condition.

They had been for three and a half days in their open boat, with the machinery broken down, without food, helpless, and exposed to one of the worst series of storms in years. They are as yet unable to give an account of their terrible experiences. When their engine broke down they were compelled to lie at anchor throughout the recent gales until Thursday morning, when they broke adrift from their moorings and were carried to sea. The heavy rains supplied them with water or they would have perished. The doctor thinks that, with care, the men will recover.

TWO KILLED, THREE INJURED

Fatal Explosions in McKinley-Darragh and Nipissing Mines

A despatch from Cobalt says: Picking into a missed hole at the 75-foot level of the McKinley-Darragh mine on Wednesday afternoon, an Austrian mucker was blown to pieces, and John McLeod, machine man, was badly injured. Going down after a series of holes had been shot, the machine gang went to the face where the explosion had taken place, and the dead man stuck a pick in the rock. The Austrian was killed in the drift, his head, one arm and one leg being severed from his body. He came to the McKinley-Darragh from Austria three months ago, and has a wife and three children on the other side.

John McLeod had his face smashed, a rock crushing his cheek bone and damaging one eye, and his legs were pierced with long splinters. He was brought to the Red Cross Hospital, and will recover. This is the third man to be killed at the mine in one year.

Another fatal accident through dynamite occurred on Wednesday night. Alfred Silva was instantly killed and Allan Carswell and William Kokka seriously injured in an explosion in the Fourth of July shaft at the Nipissing mine. The men were alone in a raise preparing to fire, and it is thought that their candles came in contact with the explosive.

OTTAWA NEWS.

How Tories Delay Business.

A close observer of what occurs in Parliament will notice some curious doings. The Opposition express the hope at every opportunity, that the business of the House will be expedited and the Session shortened. Very good. How does this work out? When question time comes hours are wasted in answering questions which members of the Opposition place on the order paper, and from the character of the questions no possible public interest is served by the great expense in preparing the answer or the time consumed in reading the answer.

This is one way of expediting public business indulged in by the Opposition.

Another Way.

Then when the news comes to call the motions which Conservatives have placed upon the order paper, every man calls out—"stands"—and not being ready to proceed with the motions of which they have given notice, causes further delay in the public business.

This is another method of delaying public business for which the Opposition may be held responsible.

A Third Way of Obstructing.

Then again when the Government took up the resolution to ratify the French treaty, the Opposition objected, and wanted to wait and see what course the United States Government would take with regard to it. Mr. Fielding promptly told the House that Canada would proceed with its commercial bargains irrespective of what the United States or any other nation thought.

This is the third illustration of how the Opposition can and does delay public business.

Foster on Extravagance.

When the House was moved into committee of supply Mr. Foster delayed public business while he rehearsed his story of extravagance.

Mr. Foster has a long tongue, but a short memory. The burden of his song was the great increase in the number of civil servants, and consequently heavy charge on the Government. He thought there were too many men employed by the Government. His words were:

How he Exaggerates.

"No man can convince me that it is necessary that $5,000,000, or anything near it, should be spent in order to get a fair and effective service, in the offices and departments here in Ottawa."

To illustrate the unreliable character of the man, and how far astray an elector would be in placing confidence in his figures, consider the following. Mr. Foster stated to the House that civil government would cost $4,703,707. Commenting on this he said:

What He Said.

"Now, I say is absolutely startling that on the Hill, and surrounding it, for civil government alone, nearly $5,000,000 is paid, and there is a sum of $736,246, to be deducted, not from $5,000,000, but from $4,703,408, and this leaves the sum of $3,967,157. Deduct again the salaries of the judges, amounting to $104,498, and the result is $3,862,709 or $1,136,291 nearer the truth than the figures submitted by Mr. Foster.

An Absurd Comparison.

Mr. Foster presented the childish argument as to what it cost in 1883-4 to run the government, and again in 1896, and he made his comparisons from these figures. He admitted that from 1883 to 1896 the Conservatives had increased the cost of the public service by thirty per cent., at a time when there was absolutely nothing to show for it, and deprecated the increase since 1896 without showing the difference in the growth between the two periods.

Mr. Fielding's Retort.

Mr. Fielding retorted that in 1895 the revenue was less than $34,000,000, and that the revenue since had grown to $96,000,000. Speaking to the point of expenditures, Mr. Fielding said that Conservatives in the House were quite as ready as Liberals to ask for new post offices. He further said there never was a time when the Opposition were so well treated in the matter of public expenditure as they are to day. He admitted an increase in the expenditure, but this increase measured the expansion of the country. He concluded by saying that when the people take into consideration not merely the increased expenditure, but the increased business and the increased prosperity of Canada, the conclusion would be reached that we have simply been keeping pace with the growth of the country.

Who Got the Rifles.

A curious incident occurred with reference to the Ross rifle. Col. Worthington, Conservative, an opponent of the rifle, asked the Minister of Militia how many individuals had received the latest pattern of Ross rifle. The reply was twelve. Col. Worthington thought he might unearth a graft so he asked a second question: "Who are the twelve individuals to whom rifles of this pattern have been issued?" The reply startled the Colonel and greatly interested the House when Sir Frederick read that among the twelve who secured rifles were the following: Col. Sam Hughes, M. P., Conservative.

W. H. Sharpe, M. P., Conservative.
W. D. Staples, M. P., Conservative.
J. A. Sexsmith, M. P., Conservative.
W. Price, M. P., Conservative.
J. Arthur, M. P., Conservative.
J. D. Taylor, M. P., Conservative.

They Formerly Denounced Rifle.

These men belong to the party which denounced the Ross rifle until the victories it won for itself at Bisley and elsewhere compelled the senseless fight to stop. Col. Hughes was always a champion of the rifle, and declared the fight against it was a conspiracy organized by rival manufacturers.

It may be mentioned that the Government paid for these rifles, but the men whose names appeared above received for them, but paid nothing. Col. Hughes explained that the rifles were issued for the purpose of placing them in the hands of expert marksmen. The Conservatives have never explained to the people that they were deceived as to the rifle, and that it is the best small arm in the world.

The Minister of the Interior very soon caused the Conservative members from Manitoba to withdraw their imputations when he announced that the surrender was arranged by Chief Justice Howell, of Manitoba, and that the department did no more than carry out the surrender as the Chief Justice arranged it.

Tory Signed the Surrender.

It appears that after the surrender had been arranged by Chief Justice Howell, it was agreed to by vote of the tribe, and Dr. Grain, Conservative member in the local House for that locality, signed the document as a witness.

It also appears that the land was put up for public action to the highest bidder, after having been duly advertised in the local papers, and papers at a distance.

It is also a fact, that before the sale the land was examined by a competent land valuator on the part of the Government, and that the land brought more money on the average than he reported it to be worth.

It was not denied when the minister asserted that the patents issued to the Indians for the land they were to receive, and that these patents were personally handed to the Indians entitled to them.

Talk, Not Proof.

As against the statement that the Indian agent acted improperly or in collusion with certain people to acquire lands from the Indians, Mr. Oliver stated that if the Opposition in his figures, consider the following. Mr. Foster stated to the House that civil government would cost $4,703,707. Commenting on this he said:

What He Said.

"Now, I say is absolutely startling that on the Hill, and surrounding it, for civil government alone, nearly $5,000,000 is taken out of the taxpayer's pile that he has to lay before the Government each year for the expenditures of this country."

The Truth Of It.

In the first place the amount is not $5,000,000, but $4,703,707.

In the second place before Mr. Foster could make his figures reach the total of $4,703,707 he added the Conservation commission, the civil service commission, High Commissioner's office, London, the salaries of the Ministers of the Crown, the Governor-General's office, and to cap it the salaries of the Lieutenant-Governors of the provinces, the judges of the land, and Dominion police.

How People Are Misled.

Not content with this he added also the sums placed in the estimate for contingencies, printing, etc. Including the general contingency sum for all the departments of $54,000. He lumps these figures all together and says: "Look at the great extravagance on the Hill. It is unthinkable that all these men are required in the public service." It is startling, says Foster that $5,000,000 a year are required on the Hill.

The impression Mr. Foster sought to create in the country was that in the Civil Service at Ottawa, "On the Hill," as he puts it, a sum of $5,000,000 a year was expended, and this was extravagance. It has been shown how Mr. Foster arrived at his figures.

Over $1,000,000 Wrong.

Now, then, deduct the salaries of the ministers, the premiers, and the amount in the estimates for continen-

Loss of Steamer Hestia.

An attempt was made to attach blame to the Marine Department for the loss of the steamer "Hestia" recently, in the Bay of Fundy. An inquiry before a competent board of wreck commissioners, all of them experienced navigators and master mariners, resulted in the finding as below, in short.

What Commissioners Found.

1. Due to "Gassons" error, accentuated by iron cargo of 800 tons.
2. Neglecting to take sounding when in sight of Gaunet rock light
3. Not sufficient allowance for ebb tide and strong wind.
4. Error of judgment on part of ship's master in allowing ship to be off her course.

Department Not in Fault.

These were the main points established in the inquiry, and the Marine Department was in no way to blame. It was shown that the ship was nine miles off her course, that she steered badly, and that no sounding were taken for two hours before she struck. The fact that a gas buoy had been reported out, or adrift, had been publicly announced in the papers, and the agent of the line to which the boat belonged was aware of this. Mariners had been notified by the department that gas buoys are unwatched, and that they could not be depended upon as those shown in watched light-houses. The finding of the commissioners showed clearly that no blame was attached to the department.

Abortive Graft Charge.

The Interior Department was criticized for selling the St. Peter's Indian reserve at Selkirk. Conservatives tried to make it appear that the Indians had been bribed to agree to the surrender, and that the land had been dis-posed of the men having influence with the department, and that the whole transaction was crooked.

sonally handed to the Indians entitled to them.

Talk, Not Proof.

As against the statement that the Indian agent acted improperly or in collusion with certain people to acquire lands from the Indians, Mr. Oliver stated that if the Opposition could establish that this agent trafficked in these lands wrongfully, he would guarantee that the agent would cease to be an agent on very short notice; but so far he had no knowledge of the fact.

The conditions of the surrender were read and explained to the Indians in detail, and discussed by the band for two days before the surrender was signed.

Real Cause of Grievance.

One Conservative member gave what was probably the real reason for attacking the Government on this matter. Mr. Bradbury, of Selkirk, said: "A great many people around Selkirk wanted to purchase, including a lot of my own friends, but as soon as it was made known that the department would not recognize any pledges or transfers given by the Indians until after the patents were issued, not one of these men would buy an acre of that land."

Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. It is related that once Justice Salmon P. Chase on stopping at the birthplace of Patrick Henry in Virginia exclaimed: "What an atmosphere! What a view! What glorious mountains! No wonder that Patrick Henry grew perfect! Whereupon an honest native Irishman remarked that the atmosphere, the view and the mountains had been there for ages, but that only one Patrick Henry had been produced."

The annual reference to the necessity for a tunnel connecting Prince Edward Island with the mainland was participated in by the members from that province. The discussion took a different form on this occasion, and what was wanted was a survey. Hon. Mr. Fielding expressed himself sympathetically, and said that the matter should be taken up more vigorously and seriously in the endeavor to get a survey by reliable engineers. If it was found that the important work could be done at a moderate cost, it would receive his hearty and cordial support.

Georgian Bay and Welland Canals.

The Prime Minister and Minister of Railways and Canals received a big deputation urging the deepening of the Welland canal. Sir Wilfrid made himself quite clear on the subject that the work of improving our waterways must be done. He said the deepening of the Saskatchewan river would be commenced this year, and the Welland canal must be placed in a condition to assist in moving the traffic from the west.

They Will be Built.

After stating that the Government were just as anxious to deepen the Welland canal as the deputation was to have it done, the Premier alluded to the Georgian Bay canal. "There was no rivalry," he said, "between the St. Lawrence canal system and the Georgian Bay canal. Both would be needed. We had no idea of the future trade of this country. We would soon have to handle 250,000,000 bushels of grain, and the Georgian Bay canal must come." The Premier made it very clear that he was awake to the necessity of an advanced transportation policy. "A commencement must be made somewhere, and that commencement must be made on the Welland canal. Montreal must be placed in a position where it could compete with New York with more than success."

Will Redeem Pledges.

The Laurier Government will keep every promise ever made to the people. The people have spoken with regard to the National Transcontinental and the Government is urging on its construction. The people say that the Welland canal must be deepened, and the Georgian Bay canal built. The Laurier Government has promised to carry on both these important public works at the earliest possible moment. In the face of this, what need is there to pay any attention to the prejudiced criticism of a handful of men in the House, when millions of people on the outside have clearly expressed their desires? The Laurier Government is a government of the people, for the people, and great public works necessary to the business of the people will be constructed in due course.

The Joy That Killed.

A senator was praising the humor of a certain congressman. "His humor, however," he continued, "is rather grim. I told him the other day about a mutual acquaintance who had died, a man he had never liked. "And his wife is dead, too," I said. "He himself died on Monday; his wife died two days later. The papers didn't say what killed her." "She was tickled to death, I guess," said the congressman grimly."

The Man of the Hour.

kinging group of stars either allied together and sweeping together through space or else composing a cluster so situated as to be affected by the same apparent motion produced by the sun's progression through the celestial regions.

But an extension of the limits of research round Alcyone exhibits also the wonderful truth that out of 110 stars being within 15 degrees of this center there are sixty moving south—that is, in the same direction—in full accordance with the hypothesis that Alcyone is the center, forty-nine showing practically no motion, while only one single individual that moves at all contrary to the computed motion. This was Madler's profound speculation justified. Furthermore, assuming Alcyone as the grand center of the millions of stars composing our astral system and the direction of the sun's motion to be as before mentioned, Madler investigated the consequent movements of all the stars in every quarter of the heavens.

Just where the swiftest motions should be found in accordance with this assumption there they actually exist, this either demonstrating the truth of the theory or else showing a well-nigh impossible series of coincidences. Therefore the conclusion given out by Madler is that Alcyone, the primary star of the Pleiades, now occupies the center of gravity and is at present the great central sun about which the universe of stars and all created matter within our ken is revolving, each entity in its own special path.

THE CROCODILE.

Terror of the Stealth of the Cunning Brute's Approach.

One of the reasons given by old writers for the crocodile being worshipped in Egypt was the somewhat cryptic one that it "laid threescore eggs and lived for threescore years," but from twenty to thirty is the common number of eggs found in a "clutch." In the reptile's easy code of ethics, however, its parental responsibilities end with the act of oviposition, for, having covered the eggs with a layer of sand, it leaves the sun to do the rest (whence doubtless Shakespeare's "your mud and the operation of your sun") and leaves it also to the ichneumon to do its worst. In some places it seems that water tortoises, too, eat crocodiles' eggs, but the ichneumon is the real desolator of crocodile homes, scratching up the nests and eating or breaking the entire "sitting" at a meal. Crocodiles' eggs, however, are absurdly small, a mother twenty feet long being content with an egg no larger than that of a goose, and the newly hatched young, hardly more formidable than a common newt, are preyed upon by birds, which a little later the rapidly growing crocodile would like nothing better than to get within its reach as well as doubtless by many other things, including old crocodiles themselves.

The real horror of the members of the crocodile tribe lies in their usual noiselessness. "They swim with great silence, making scarcely even a ripple on the water," says M. du Chailu, and the terror of the stealth of their approach is well conveyed in Rudyard Kipling's "Ripple Song."

"Wait, ah, wait," the ripple saith.
"Maiden, wait, for I am Death!"

Make Each Animal Worth 25% Over Its Cost

On 2/3 of a Cent a Day

Nobody ever heard of "stock food" curing the bots or colic, making hens lay in winter, increasing the yield of milk five pounds per cow a day, or restoring run-down animals to plumpness and vigor.

When you feed "stock food" to your cow, horse, swine or poultry, you are merely feeding them what you are growing on your own farm.

Your animals do need not more feed, but something to help their bodies get all the good out of the feed you give them so they can get fat and stay fat all year round; also to prevent disease, cure disease and keep them up to the best possible condition. No "stock food" can do all these things. ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC can and does. It is

Not a "Stock Food" But a "Conditioner"

ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC contains no grain, nor farm products. It increases yield of milk from three to five pounds per cow per day before the Specific has been used two weeks. It makes the milk richer and adds flesh faster than any other preparation known. Young calves fed with ROYAL PURPLE are as large at six weeks old as they would be when fed with ordinary materials at ten weeks.

ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC builds up run-down animals and restores them to plumpness almost magically. Cures bots, colic, worms, skin diseases and debility permanently.

Dan McEwan, the horseman, says: "I have used ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC persistently in the feeding of 'The Eel,' 2024, largest winner of any pacer on Grand Circuit in 1908, and Henry Winters', 2091, brother of 'Allen Winters', winner of $36,000 in trotting stakes. These horses have never been off their feed since I commenced using Royal Purple Specific almost a year ago, and I will always have it in my stables."

Royal Purple

STOCK AND POULTRY SPECIFICS

One 50c. package of ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC will last one animal seventy days, which is a little over two-thirds of a cent a day. Most stock foods in fifty cent packages last but fifty days and are given three times a day. ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC is given but once a day, and lasts half again as long as the others. ROYAL PURPLE will increase the value of your stock 25%. It is an astonishingly quick fattener, stimulating the appetite and the relish for food, assisting nature to digest and turn feed into flesh. As a hog fattener it is a leader.

It will save many times its cost in veterinary bills. ROYAL PURPLE POULTRY SPECIFIC is our other Specific for poultry, not for stock. One 50c. package will last twenty-five hens 70 days, or a pair costing $1.50 will last twenty-five hens 280 days, which is four times more material for only three times the cost. It makes a "laying machine" out of your hens. Every package of ROYAL PURPLE STOCK SPECIFIC or POULTRY SPECIFIC is guaranteed.

Just use ROYAL PURPLE on one of your animals and any other preparation on another animal in the same condition; after comparing results you will say ROYAL PURPLE has them all beat to death, or else back comes your money. FREE—Ask your merchant or write us for our valuable 32-page booklet on cattle and poultry diseases, containing also cooking recipes and full particulars about ROYAL PURPLE STOCK and POULTRY SPECIFICS.

If you cannot get Royal Purple Specifics from merchants or agents, we will supply you direct, express prepaid, on receipt of $1.50 a pair for either Poultry or Stock Specifics.

Recommended As An Ideal Remedy

W. S. BOND, Esq.

Lloydtown, Ont., March 19th, 1909.
"For some years I have been greatly troubled with headaches and indigestion, brought on by stomach disorders, constipation and biliousness. I had tried many remedies with only indifferent success, until "Fruit-a-tives" came to my notice. Being a general storekeeper, I was selling a good many "Fruit-a-tives" to my customers and, remarking how pleased they were with the results obtained from using "Fruit-a-tives," I decided to try them and, I might say, the effects were almost magical. Headaches and biliousness disappeared and to-day I recommend "Fruit-a-tives" to my customers as 'An ideal remedy.'

"I might also add that about three years ago I was laid up with LUMBAGO AND SCIATICA—couldn't get out of bed or lift one foot over the other. A good treatment of "Fruit-a-tives" cured me of these pains and banished the Sciatica and Lumbago so that to-day I am as well as ever and can lift anything necessary."

RAILWAY CONDUCTORS.

The Many and Varied Duties They Have to Perform.

As a conductor he will probably begin in the freight service. His caboose will be a traveling office, and, more than that, it will carry all the gossip of the division up and down the line. It may be a homely little car, but it is just as sure to be a homelike place. From its elevated outlook he may command a good view of the train away ahead to the engine, and he will be supposed to know all the while that the brakemen are attending to their duties, that the train is in good order, particularly that there are no hot boxes smoking away and in imminent danger of setting fire to the train and the valuable contents. There is a deal of bookkeeping to be accomplished in that traveling office. The conductor will receive the waybills of the cars of his train and their contents, and he is held responsible for their safe deliveries to their destination or the junction points where they are to be delivered to other lines.

When he comes to the passenger service there will be still more bookkeeping to confront him, and he will have to be a man of good mental attainments to handle all the many, many varieties of local and through tickets, mileage books, passes and other forms of transportation contracts that come to him, to detect the good from the bad, to throw out the counterfeiters that are constantly being offered to him. He will have to carry quite

THE HUDSON RIVER.

Has Been Known by at Least Twenty Different Names.

In the course of the past 400 years the Hudson has been known by at least twenty different names, and even today—in New York, at any rate—it is indifferently referred to both as the Hudson and the North river.

While Henry Hudson is universally acclaimed as the discoverer of the noble river which bears his name, it is well known that nearly a century before Hudson's successful exploration John da Verrazano, a Florentine, entered the mouth of the Hudson and reported that he had passed up the river about a league in a boat, not venturing to sail his vessel, the Dauphine, up a river with which he was unfamiliar. A sudden squall impelled him to return to his ship. Verrazano called the Hudson "the river of steep hills." This was in 1524. Some years later Verrazano's brother made a map of the region, and he named the mouth of the Hudson "San Germano."

In 1525 a Spaniard named Gomez, who came to America on an exploring trip, made a chart upon which he designated the Hudson as "San Antonio."

When some eighty years later Henry Hudson in his efforts to reach the East Indian possessions of the Dutch East India company by a northwestern route accidentally ran into the Hudson he promptly dubbed it the "Manhattes," from the name of the Indians who dwelt at its mouth.

Hudson sailed slowly up the river as far as Albany, and his experiences with the Indians and his observations of the surrounding country were so gratifying that he returned home with glowing reports of the new found country.

The Dutch at once realized that great commercial advantage might be gained in the new territory, and various companies were organized to colonize and exploit it.

In 1616 a charter was granted to the New Netherlands company, and the river was there referred to as "De Riviere van der Vorst Mauritsius" in honor of Prince Maurice of Orange.

In various other charters granted at this time and public documents in which the river was mentioned it was spoken of as the "Groote Riviere," the "Noordt river," the "River of the Manhattans" and the "Rio de Montague."

In addition to these names, the Indians had a number of others for it, among which may be mentioned "Satanata," "Shawnatawty," "Cabobata-tee" and "Cohongorontas."

As late as 1754 the river was referred to by a French writer as the "River Orange."

When the English took possession of New Netherlands they persistently called the river "Hudson's river," and despite the many other names by which it was known that name finally "stuck," although many of the early colonists spoke of it as the North river in contradistinction to the Delaware river, which was commonly known as the South river.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Story of Stevenson.

After one of Dumas' plays which he saw presented in Paris and in which a man employs an unworthy stratagem against a woman Robert Louis Stevenson wrote:

"I came forth from that performance in a breathing heat of indignation. On the way down the Francois stairs I trod on an old gentleman's toes, whereupon, with that suavity which so well becomes me, I turned about to apologize and on the instant, repenting me of that intention, stopped the apology midway and added something in French to this effect: 'No. You are one of the persons who have been ap-

THE FORBIDDEN FRUIT.

No Authority For Saying It Was an Apple That Eve Ate.

"What a vast amount of trouble the human race might have avoided if Eve hadn't eaten that apple," remarked the grouchy individual when something especially displeased him.

"How do you know it was an apple?" asked the accurate man.

"Why, the Bible says so, doesn't it?"

"No. It has come to be a popular belief that the fruit which was eaten by our first parents in the garden 'eastward to Eden' was an apple, but there is no authority for this."

"It is called simply the fruit of the tree of knowledge of good and evil. And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food and that it was pleasant to the eyes and a tree to be

LINCOLN TRIED IT.

And That Ended the Naval Sweatbox Punishment.

On one of Mr. Lincoln's excursions to Fortress Monroe on the steamer Hartford in 1863 his attention was directed to a narrow door bound with iron, the use of which he was anxious to learn.

"What is this?" he asked.

"Oh, that is the sweatbox," was the reply. "It is used for refractory and insubordinate seamen. A man in there is subjected to steam heat and has very little ventilation." It generally brings him to terms very quickly."

President Lincoln's curiosity was aroused. "This," he said to himself, "is treatment to which thousands of American seamen are probably subjected every year. Let me try it for myself and see what it really is."

Taking off his hat, for he was several inches over six feet in height, he entered the inclosure, which he found to be little more than three feet in length or width. He gave orders that at a signal from himself the door should be immediately opened. It was then closed and the steam turned on.

He had been inside hardly three minutes before the signal was given. President Lincoln had experienced enough of what was then regarded as necessary punishment for American seamen. There was very little ventilation, and the short exposure to the hot and humid air had almost suffocated him.

Turning to Secretary Welles of the navy department, the president ordered that no such inclosure as the sweatbox should ever after be allowed on any vessel flying the American flag.

It was not an hour after this order had been given before every sailor on every ship in Hampton Roads had heard of it. The effect was most remarkable on the older sailors, many of whom had themselves experienced the punishment of the sweatbox. Some of them wept from joy.

But the good results of this act of President Lincoln were not confined to the American navy. Great Britain, France, Germany and other European countries heard that the sweatbox had been abolished in America as inhuman. One and all of these nations in turn fell into line, and today the sweatbox is not to be found on any vessel flying the flag of a civilized nation throughout the world.

RAN THE BLOCKADE.

Putting Through a Risky Piece of Business at Santiago.

Some naval officers at a dinner party the other evening were discussing the efficacy of the Cuban blockade in 1898. That many vessels ran the blockade at Havana, Cienfuegos and elsewhere was admitted.

"But only one vessel ever ran the Santiago blockade," said one of the speakers, "and that was one of our own vessels, the little Gloucester."

He then described how the Gloucester ran the blockade, while commanded by Dick Wainwright, then a Lieutenant commander, who had previously been executive officer of the Maine when it blew up.

"We had been sent down to Asseraderos to communicate with the insurgents," said the raconteur, who was on the Gloucester at the time. "Upon our return it was quite dark, and we were proceeding slowly to our station on the inside line of the blockade when the electric signaling apparatus broke down. We could not give a signal, particularly the private identification signal of the night. Had we been discovered by one of the blockading vessels it would at once have flashed the signal, and if we did not immediately respond it would have promptly open-

...ve to be a man of good mental attainments to handle, all the many, many varieties of local and through tickets, mileage books, passes and other forms of transportation contracts that come to him, to detect the good from the bad, to throw out the counterfeits that are constantly being offered to him. He will have to carry quite a money account for cash affairs, and he knows the mistakes will have to be paid for out of his own pocket.

All that is only a phase of his business. He is responsible for the care and safe conduct of his train, equally responsible in the last respect with the engineer. He also receives and signs for the train orders, and he is required to keep in mind every detail of the train's progress over the line. He will have his own assortment of questions to answer at every stage of the journey, and he will be expected to maintain the discipline of the railroad upon its trains. That may mean in the one instance the ejection of a passenger who refuses to pay his fare—and still he must not involve the road in any big damage suit—or in another the subjugation of some gang of drunken loafers. The real wonder of it is that so many conductors come as near as they do to the Chesterfieldian standards.—Edward Hungerford in Outing Magazine.

Swell Stock.

"Could I sell you an imported Persian cat for $1,000?" ventured the cat and dog fancier.

"What?" exclaimed the multimillionaire in surprise. "Why, I just bought a $5,000 bulldog from you the other day."

"Yes, but I thought you'd want a $1,000 cat for that swell bulldog to chase. You surely wouldn't allow a $5,000 bulldog to chase a common cat, would you?"

...way down the Francis stairs I trod on an old gentleman's toes, whereupon, with that suavely which so well becomes me, I turned about to apologize and on the instant, repenting me of that intention, stopped the apology midway and added something in French to this effect: 'No. You are one of the persons who have been applauding that piece. I retract my apology.'

"Said the old Frenchman, laying his hand on my arm and with a smile that was truly heavenly in temperance, irony, good nature and knowledge of the world. 'Ah, monsieur, vous etes bien jenne' (Ah, sir, you are very young)."

The Cosmological Question.

The business of life allows no spare time any more. One cannot get rich nowadays in office hours, nor become great, nor keep telegraphically informed, nor do his share of talking and listening. Everybody but the plumber and paperhanger works overtime. How the earth keeps up a necessary amount of whirling in the old twenty-four hour limit is more than we can understand. But she can't keep up the pace much longer. She must have an extra hour. And how to snatch it from the tail end of eternity is the burning cosmological question.—Dallas Lore Sharp in Atlantic.

And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food and that it was pleasant to the eyes and a tree to be desired to make one wise she took of the fruit thereof and did eat and gave also to her husband with her, and he did eat." What is there here about an apple?

"A great many popular quotations are attributed to the Bible when in fact they had other sources.

"God tempers the wind to the shorn lamb" is not from the Scriptures, but from 'A Sentimental Journey to Italy,' by Sterne.

"In the midst of life we are in death," which is found in the burial service, can be traced to Luther.

"From St. Paul's utterance, 'The love of money is the root of all evil,' we have twisted the saying. 'Money is the root of evil.' 'Cleanliness is next to godliness' was uttered by John Wesley in a sermon on dress. 'The merciful man is merciful to his beast' is a popular rendering of the proverb, 'A righteous man regardeth the life of his beast.' 'The tongue is an unruly member' appears in the epistle of James as 'The tongue can no man tame; it is an unruly evil.'—Philadelphia North American.

A BEAVER DAM.

The Feeling It Inspired In a University Professor.

I have yet to meet the man who can walk for the first time through a beaver works, as the range of a colony of beavers is called, and not feel something of the sentiment of human association.

It is a sensation very similar to what we feel when we come out unexpectedly into a woodland clearing after a long day spent in the unbroken solitudes.

I once stood with a learned professor of Columbia college on the bank of a stream in eastern Canada and looked down on a freshly made beaver dam—one of the best in point of construction that I had ever seen. It was, indeed, a really stupendous affair for a beaver to have made. Built of alder poles and brush, weighted with mud and small stones, it was fifty feet long, six feet high and raised the level of the water by about sixty inches.

Seen from the upstream side, it presented the appearance of a more or less evenly disposed array of short sticks protruding from a long mound of mud just level with the surface of the restrained water. From below the brushwork supporting the dam proper was plainly visible and the ingenuity of its placing at once apparent.

There was of course none of that pile driving or basket weaving which at one time played so large a part in the picturesque descriptions by fanciful writers, but despite its roughness it was a really remarkable piece of animal engineering. My companion inspected it for several minutes in impressed silence.

"I should be afraid to kill a thing that knew so much," he said thoughtfully.—Bailey's Magazine.

"I scraped an acquaintance with Jones today."

"Yes. And he says your methods need honing."—Cleveland Leader.

Had we been discovered by one of the blockading vessels it would at once have flashed the signal, and if we did not immediately respond it would have promptly opened fire. We would have been blown to pieces in a minute.

"It was a risky piece of business, but Dick Wainwright was perfectly cool and the Gloucester actually picked its way without being discovered through the whole blockading fleet, took up its station on the inside line, under the Morro, and as soon as the signalling apparatus was repaired reported its arrival. It was a clear case of blockade running, but it was mighty ticklish while it lasted."

An Intelligent Cow.

A few nights ago a citizen went home and found a cow in his yard. He drove her out. He then went into the house and later heard the animal in the yard again. He drove her out the second and third times. The citizen's son came home later and found the animal in the yard and drove her out. The citizen then made an investigation and found the cow got in by wading around the fence on the river side. He hung up a lantern to deceive the cow as she came in, and the next morning, so he says, he found the cow in the yard with the lantern hung on her horns, using the same to hunt out the best grapefruit in his grove. Say what you please, but that was an intelligent cow. And the story is true—of course it is.

CURED OF CONSTIPATION

Mr. Andrews praises Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills.

Mr. George Andrews of Halifax, N.S., writes: "For many years I have been troubled with chronic Constipation. This ailment never comes single-handed, and I have been a victim to the many illnesses that constipation brings in its train. Medicine after medicine I have taken in order to find relief, but one and all left me in the same hopeless condition. It seemed that nothing would expel from me the one ailment that caused so much trouble, yet at last I read about these Indian Root Pills.

That was indeed a lucky day for me, for I was so impressed with the statements made that I determined to give them a fair trial.

They have regulated my stomach and bowels. I am cured of constipation, and I claim they have no equal as a medicine."

For over half a century Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have been curing constipation and clogged, inactive kidneys, with all the ailments which result from them. They cleanse the whole system and purify the blood. Sold everywhere at 25c. a box.

PERUNA A WONDERFUL BOON IN MY OLD AGE.

MRS. MAHALA REID.

Heartily Approves of Per-una and Man-a-lin for Kidney and Bowel Trouble.

MRS. MAHALA REID, Corbyville, Ont., Canada, writes:

"Your celebrated remedies have been a wonderful boon to me in my old age."

"I have not been in so good health for several years as now. I was troubled with constipation, rheumatism and kidney trouble."

"A little over two years ago, I completely lost my health, becoming almost helpless, when a dear friend sent me your remedies, Peruna and Manalin. I began to take them, following the directions on the bottle. I very soon began to feel benefited by their use and continued to take them."

"I am now completely recovered from the above ailments, in fact, better than I have been for years past. I cannot praise the remedies too highly and will always recommend them to others."

Constipation is almost sure to set up other derangements.

Retained accumulations within the bowels are partly reabsorbed into the system, producing sometimes rheumatism, sometimes kidney trouble."

The blood being surecharged with acids, which ordinarily find their escape through the bowels when they are regular, rheumatism is the result.

Acid blood forms crystals, which accumulate about the ligaments, cartilages and sometimes the bones in the joints.

Such morbid accumulations of blood throw extra work upon the kidneys. The kidneys being unable to perform the unusual labor of excreting these poisons, often give way and kidney trouble is the result.

Permanent relief cannot be reasonably expected except by correcting the constipation.

Regular bowels are a great safeguard to health. Peruna and Manalin are unexcelled the world over for chronic diseases affecting the bowels and kidneys.

Mrs. W. W. Lamaster, 3127 McAtee Ave., Louisville, Ky., writes:

"I suffered for twenty-six years with bladder and kidney trouble, and being advised to give Peruna a trial, I did so. Eight bottles of Peruna and three bottles of Manalin entirely cured me."

Ask your Druggist for a Free Peruna Almanac for 1910.

Dangerous Insects.

The trolley-car stopped in the middle of a stretch of country road. Both motorman and conductor tried in vain to find out what the trouble was. At last they gave it up, and the conductor started down the track to the nearest telephone.

"What do you suppose is the trouble?" inquired a passenger of his seat mate.

"Why, I don't know much about electricity," said the other, "but I should say it was the ohms. You see, they get into the wires every little while and make an awful fuss there. Technically, I believe, it is called resistance, but all it amounts to is stoppage—like eels in water pipe, you know. I never saw an ohm myself. They're microscopic, you know."

An Important Advantage.

"Do you think a college education affords a man an important advantage?"

"Oh, yes! One has to have it in order to get into a university club."—Chicago Record-Herald.

"The Fault of the Dutch."

It was to Sir Charles Bagot, minister at The Hague, that Canning in the course of a tariff dispute with Falk, the Dutch premier, addressed his famous dispatch in verse, which, as we have seen it wrongly quoted on several occasions, we venture to append: In matters of commerce the fault of the Dutch is giving too little and asking too much. With equal advantage the French are content. So we'll clap on Dutch bottoms at twenty per cent. Twenty per cent. Twenty per cent. Nouns frappersons Falk with twenty per cent.

"My baby had a rash something like eczema. It caused the child great pain and made it very ill. The rash spread very fast, and I was at a loss what to do. All the remedies I tried failed to help. A friend strongly advised me to try that proved good and gave me. I went on with the treatment, and box was used, all traces of the

The advisability of holding a public meeting to discuss the agreement to be voted in January between the town and the Waterworks Co., was brought to the attention of the council by Comm. Gibbard. It was decided that notices be inserted in the local papers calling a public meeting for Friday, December 17th, to be held in the town hall.

Council adjourned.

It beats all what old questions that in some of the departments of government in Washington. Not long ago the treasury received a letter from a man who had made a bet asking "How many cents are there in a bushel?" The answer was not easy to offer. If the man had asked about pounds he might have received a definite answer. As it was, he got in reply a guess from a clerk that "roughly there is something like $320, or 32,000 pennies."
